

These wrapper classes for STEERING and THROTTLE comply with the 'part' interface by providing the run() method, which is called in the drive loop.

